Leadership goes well beyond efficient management, and the effect of emotions on the success of organisations is often underestimated. In Leading with Depth: The Impact of Emotions and Relationships on Leadership, Claudia Nagel guides us through the emotional and relational fallacies of organisational leadership from both the personal and the systemic perspective.

Nagel takes us on a journey through our unknown inner world to explore what it takes to be a good leader today. She expertly weaves theory, including personality development, decision-making, neurosciences, psycho- and sociodynamics, with practical advice. This balanced review is complemented by pertinent case studies from well-known experts in the field. Each chapter concludes with an overview of key learnings for the reader to take away to enable practical application.

Nagel's clear language avoids academic jargon to present a highly readable overview of cutting-edge research. By exploring the human aspects of leadership, she successfully bridges the gap between theoretical concepts and real-life application. This is a valuable resource for both novice and experienced leaders, as well as organizational consultants and executive coaches looking to inform their practice.

Prof. Dr. Claudia Nagel is a consultant, coach, author, and senior advisor to international organisations and their board members. She is full Professor at the VU Amsterdam University, holding a chair on change and identity. In her early career, she held leadership positions in finance/investment banking and management consulting. As an economist (MBA), organisational psychologist (PhD), and chartered psychoanalyst (ISAP), Claudia is an expert on strategic management, leadership, and change processes. She runs her own consulting business, Nagel & Company, and is president of ISPSO.
